LATEST CITY NEWS.

W. J. Craig, Esq., county clerk of Wells, and also extensively interested in railway matters, is in the city today.

The vote for the flag at the Academy Saturday night at the close stood:—Garfield boys, 141; Hancock boys, 174.

The St. Paul's fair opened at the Rink on Saturday evening, and was quite largely attended. It will be continued every evening during the present week.

Every Democrat in the Eighth ward is requested to attend the meeting to be held to-morrow evening at the hall over Hipman's grocery store. Addresses will be delivered by Judge Zollars and Judge O'Rourke. Business of great importance will be transacted.

Terribly Crushed.

Saturday morning, about 5 o'clock, an employe in the Wabash yards, standing in the doorway of the Wabash round house talking to some parties while an engine was backing down the track to enter the house, not noticing its approach, he stood until the engine was within about three feet of him when he endeavored to get out of the way, but before he could do this he was caught between the tender of the engine and the side of the door and held as by a vice. His screams were heard by the engineer, who stopped the engine, and the unfortunate man was taken from his position more dead than alive, and conveyed to his residence. His physicians say that his injuries are very serious, and may result fatally.

An experienced dry goods salesman, none others need apply.

POLITICAL POINTS.

The Effect of Conkling's Denunciation of Hayes.

Frenchmen Insulted and Angry.

Riotous Conduct of a Pittsburgh Colored Club.

Congressman Murch Says That Plasted is Elected and that He Will be Inaugurated.

Blaine's Agents Buy Votes at Ten Dollars Each.

New York, Sept. 20.—Senator Conkling's sarcastic denunciation of Hayes has caused a great sensation, and will widen the breach in the Republican party in this State.

The employees in the Custom House and postoffice and other Federal officials are indignant at the Senator's denunciation of the head of the administration, and the general feeling is that the speech and parade have injured the Republican prospects. The Courier des Etats Unis—the organ of the French organizations, denounces Blaine for his reflections on the French Canadians in Maine, and says that while they are honest and industrious as Blaine says, they are not such fools as to be tricked by him, and that all voters of the French race will resent his insults by voting for Hancock and English.

A. Waterhouse, editor of the Standard, Augusta, Me., telegraphs that it is the intention of the Republican managers to delay the announcement of the result until the official count after the October elections. He says that Blaine is constantly sending out receiving cipher dispatches to all parts of the State, and that the Republicans are continuing desperate underhand work. The proof of fraud in the First Congressional district is clear—over 300 Democratic names have been illegally stricken off the list of voters.

General Plasted says that his majority is too large to be overcome by the attempted frauds. The Republicans have suddenly stopped publishing Maine dispatches, and the Republican National headquarters are deserted to-night. The general belief is that the attempted fraud in Maine has failed to far as the Governor is concerned through an under estimate of Plasted's real majority by the manipulators of the count.

At 8 p. m. the National Democratic Committee received the following dispatch from a very reliable source:

Portland, Me., Sept. 18.—Plasted's election absolutely certain by 200 majority over all frauds. Full particulars later.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 19.—At a late hour last night, when the political clubs were returning home, considerable riotous and disorderly conduct ensued. The Democrats had their advertised procession in honor of General Butler and Colonel Forney.

The Republican marching clubs were out also and considerable bad feeling was engendered. Numerous fights occurred at different points along the line of procession, and several parties were severely injured. At a point in the Twelfth ward a marching club was returning home, when it is claimed a shot was fired into the ranks of the club by some one in a crowd in front of Schubert's saloon.

A colored club attacked the saloon, battered in the doors and riddled the house with bullets. Schubert was assaulted and very badly hurt.

New York, September 20.—The following dispatch was received by the National Democratic Committee at an early hour this morning:

Portland, Me., Sept. 18, 1880.—Wm. H. Barstow, Chairman National Democratic Committee—we have now full returns from Maine, which is no more the State of Blaine. The Republicans have desperately clung to the hope that after their majority of 15,000 was gone they could still claim the election of their Governor. Returns from 496 towns, mostly from Republican sources, carefully revised, give Plasted 73,493, Davis 73,542, majority for Davis 49. Same towns in 1876 gave Republicans 75,802. Opposition 60,760. Republican majority 15,042. Republican loss 14,993. Seven towns are yet to be heard from, which voted in 1876, Republican, 65; Democrat, 174; and in 1879, Republican, 61; opposition, 223. They will elect Plasted by about 20 majority. There are about 500 scattering votes to increase the majority against the Republicans. The best proof of the demoralization of the Republicans is shown by the fact that they threaten to have Blaine's supreme court declare that it requires a majority of all votes to elect a Governor. The Republicans have carried the legislature by resorting to the most desperate means in close towns and counties. Of the twenty-two senators they elect 13 who have less than 100 majority. Great joy is felt that General Anderson, a staunch Democrat, is elected to Congress over Reed. Reed claims 109 majority, but many more votes for Anderson were tendered by citizens whose names were surreptitiously omitted from the list by Republican election officers. In Blaine's district Lindsey, Republican, claims about 150 majority over Philbrick, but Philbrick will contest and expose the reckless bribery of Lindsey's supporters. Frye, Republican, and Ladd and Murch, opposition, are elected by large majorities. The bulldozing of factory hands throughout the State was open and violent. In Biddeford the Democrats were compelled to vote the Republican ticket or leave work, and those who did not were discharged. In South Berwick the Democrats were not allowed to leave the mills to vote, and similar coercion was used in other factory towns, but the people have triumphed. The presidential campaign will still be prosecuted here without regard to minor differences to rescue the State and country from Republican despotism. A later dispatch says the great fight to overthrow the Republican Rule in Maine has been gallantly made against the most powerful obstacles, and the discouragement caused by articles in newspapers out of the State.

The New York Star publishes the following, from Congressman Murch: Rockland, Me., Sept. 18.—Plasted is elected and will be inaugurated. Honest republicans condemn the attempt to count him out.

[Signed,] F. H. MURCH.

Boston, Sept. 19.—The Globe's Augusta correspondent telegraphs that all but seven towns give Davis 73,542, and Plasted 73,493. The towns to hear from gave, in 1879, 167 fusion majority. If they vote as last year Plasted's plurality will be 118, but democratic gains are expected. There are general congratulations among democrats to-day over the break-down of the Maine fraud. It appears that in counting the returns the republican manipulation made an error of about 500 in the figures, consequently they did not steal enough votes. The swindle is not merely infamous, but also abortive.

The dispatches of Blaine to Garfield cause much comment by reason of their falseness and audacity. His agents were in every corner of the State, and every vote was bought that could be. A criminal complaint has been made in his own town, Augusta, against one of Blaine's agents upon proof that he paid four men ten dollars each for their votes.

GAY GALLOOTS.

Five of Them Pay Their Respects to His Honor.

Maude Warner, a soiled dove, in connection with her partner, Maggie Moran, got on a howling drunk Saturday afternoon, and began abusing passersby and filling the air with exclamations not usually heard in refined circles. Deputy Guttermuth attached himself to the girls and locked them up. They were not in durance vile very long, for a young man, himself a noted "turfman," procured their release. Maggie appeared for trial this morning, but Maude did not. Maggie was forced to give up $5 for her fine.

Frank Jones and George Falls procured a rig at a livery stable last night and started out for a "hoorah." They were not very particular whether they kept in the middle of the street or not, but just went every way. The efforts of a policeman to stop them were of no avail, and they pursued their wild course out East Washington street where they upset near the East End brewery.

On their way back Capt. Smith "took them in." Jones pled not guilty to the charge of fast driving and disorderly conduct, but Falls pled guilty. Their statements were very contradictory, and the result was that Falls got off for $10, while Jones paid $12.

George Stewart, became enthused over the latest news from Maine. When George gets out of the crackery Indiana will have gone Democratic.

George Ephram Spangler, a dilapidated individual with an undisguised fondness for whisky, was present to answer to the charge of having profaned the Sabbath by an excessive indulgence in the flowing bowl. Geo. admitted it and His Honor showed no hesitancy in fining him.

Peter Karr was found by Marshal Diehl trying to talk a lamp-post to death, on Clinton street, yesterday. Peter was "blind" drunk, and it cost him just $5.

Wm. Hicks was undoubtedly drunk last night, and it is an indisputable fact that William had to pay $3 to His Honor this morning.

Wm. Lyon was around the south depot yesterday, threatening to make mince meat out of some one. Officer Kelly induced William to go the calaboose. But owing to some extenuating circumstances which were introduced this morning His Honor let William go, on condition that he would leave town, and with a "good morning" William vanished through a window.

A BIG BLAZE.

The Interior of Eckert's Pork Packing Establishment Badly Damaged by Fire.

Shortly before two o'clock yesterday afternoon an alarm was sent in occasioned by the breaking out of a fire in the smoking apartment of Eckert's pork packing establishment on Calhoun street. In less than no time the department was on the spot and making strenuous efforts to check the progress of the flames. Had it not been for the skill and exertion of the fire ladders there is no telling what dire results might have followed, as the location of the fire was in the very center of the business portion of the city, and the surrounding buildings were filled with oil and other combustibles. The fire, however, was soon got under control and was then easily extinguished. An investigation showed that the frame work of the interior of the building was badly damaged and the upper portion of the building so badly burned and charred as to necessitate a new roof. A large amount of meat was also rendered useless. Mr. Eckert estimates his loss at about $2000, which is fully insured in city companies.

Noting for the large cigar sign at the St. Paul's fair will commence this evening.

A Soldier on Eli Perkins.

To the Editor of the SENTINEL:

"Eli Perkins," in his speech last Saturday night, tried hard to impress upon the minds of his hearers that General W. S. Hancock is a rebel and that if the solid South would elect him they would rule him and that he (Perkins) would never submit to a rule of the South and intimated that he would secede. He especially appealed to the soldiers of the late war to again fight the same rebels with Hancock as their leader. After the utterance of some more such nonsense he closed with saying, "Do you want to fight with Grant, and Hooker, and Thomas, and Garfield?" Very wisely he put Garfield after a dead man. I wish to inform Perkins that that great general, Thomas, died some time ago, and if he were yet alive, he would to-day fight with Hancock, Sigel and others against such men like "Eli Perkins," Longstreet, Mosby and others of the same ilk.

That Hancock is a rebel no one in this vicinity ever heard of before, and is too silly to require comment, and if he wants to find the soldiers he must look for them in the rank and file fighting for Hancock, as there is at least four with Hancock to one with Garfield in this county, and about two to one in the State, and more joining daily, as such arguments open their eyes.

Now, if Hancock is elected "Perkins will secede." Well, what of it? He can do so; no one will care. He can purchase a country about twenty by forty feet, outside of the United States line, and there have a government of his own and the States will be a united republic for all that and be so much better off. His argument about State Rights sounded like a cloverhuller in motion. He wants the States to have no rights whatever. He tried to arraign the Democratic party for advocating for the States to have rights the same as citizens should have some rights. City and county as well as State governments should have some rights with which the government of the United States should no more interfere than the constitution allows and requires. The State Right policy, as preached by "Perkins" and others of the same kind of Republican speakers has been tried in the Southern States under the carpet-bag government, and has crippled their industries and commerce in a shameful manner, and if the Republicans should get in power in both houses of Congress and Garfield as President, they would not only put the south back under a carpet bag government, but would also cripple the industries in the north in the same manner as we had it crippled from 1873 to 1878, and until enough Republicans had left their party and joined the Democrats who then succeeded in electing in the two houses of Congress a Democratic majority enabling them to stop the steals and especially the corrupt legislation on finance by which action the confidence of the people towards the Government was to a great extent restored and business of all kinds was resumed. The thanks of the nation are due to the wise legislation of the two Democratic Houses for the better times we now enjoy, and with General Hancock and both houses on the people's side the good times will continue. FOSTER'S FASHIONS.

They Are the Latest and Best.

In response to an invitation tendered by Mr. Foster, the genial proprietor of the merchant tailoring parlors at 80 Calhoun street, a SENTINEL reporter this morning paid a visit to the above place. We had indeed anticipated seeing something immense but we had not the remotest idea that any such stock of goods as we found was arranged within the cosy little parlors. Piece goods of all descriptions met the eye at every turn, and any one wanting a suit, and calls on Mr. Foster, will certainly not purchase on account of there being no assortment. We are pleased to say that Mr. Foster is doing a large business, and his patronage is constantly increasing. 16 1w

The Republicans feel greatly relieved to think they didn't lose Vermont.

The party of great moral ideas

wouldn't steal Maine nor nuthin'—

oh! dear no!

It is a Democratic victory in Maine,

and this accounts for the early preparations for a Republican funeral in Indiana.

If the Republican party had not stolen the last election they would stand more chance of carrying the present one.

The aggressive canvass now in progress by Governor Hendricks will add at least five thousand to the Democratic majority in this State at the coming elections.

In the joint discussion between

Judge Taylor and Hon. Walpole G.

Colerick, the latter is having it all his own way, and the Judge thus far has utterly failed to keep up his end.

THE SENTINEL has the names of several solid Republicans in this city, who have announced themselves as determined to vote a part, or whole, of the State Democratic ticket, and more to follow their example.

NOTWITHSTANDING the Republicans have imported large numbers of negroes from Kentucky and bummers from Michigan to vote their ticket at the coming election, it is now certain that the State will go Democratic by from ten to fifteen thousand majority.

THE strictures by Governor Hendricks upon the acts and character of

General Garfield were General Ben

Harrison's funeral. Governor Hendricks could not be successfully answered, and all the leading Republicans who have read both Hendricks' and Harrison's speeches acknowledge the fact.

Do workingmen believe that the kid-gloved aristocratic Judge Porter,

the Republican candidate for Governor, has a single kindly feeling or the least love for the laborers? He is one of that sort of American "statesmen" who part their hair in the middle, wear kid gloves and speak of working men as greasy mechanics—

the mudalls of society. He has not a single sentiment in common with the working classes, and only condescends to notice them to steal their voice.

Chalk in His Milk.

Strange to say Gen. Garfield, the Republican nominee for the presidency, was a boy once, and, stranger still, he was very much like other boys. It is curious to relate, too, that as a boy he seems to have been just as fond of making money as he was in Congress and of getting the biggest returns out of the smallest possible investments. As will be seen from the following incident in connection with his early life, as told by some nasty, disagreeable rebel Democrat, of course: "When a boy in Ohio, or somewhere else, Garfield drove a milk wagon. Among his customers was a colored family. As he drove up one day to the domicile of his colored patron he bethought him to have a little fun at the expense of a pickaninny that was making mud pies in the door-yard, and so addressed it: 'You, Ephraim, take dat chalk out of yo' eye.' Ephraim's mother happened to be just around the corner of the house hoeing the watermelons, and hastened around in front, she almost yelled in her indignation: 'See heah, honey, you hab all you kin tend to ef you take dat chalk out ob yo' milk.'"

The old darkey woman hit the nail fair on the head and drove it straight home. Garfield had chalk in his milk then and he has chalk in his milk now. In fact, that which in his former and better years may have been the pure cream of his nature, has become so thickened and poisoned with the Credit Mobilier and DeGolyer substances that it is utterly insipid and tasteless. Hence the people don't like it and will have none of it. If General Garfield and his friends, therefore, want to possess the confidence of the country they should, instead of the vain effort they are making to discover flaws in the character and record of General Hancock, be diligent in extracting the chalk out of the political milk they are endeavoring to persuade the people to partake of.

STILL the news from the southern part of the State comes, that negroes are daily crossing the Ohio river from Kentucky for the purpose of voting the Republican ticket. They come with the pretense of becoming settlers and in search of work. But their expenses are paid and provision made for their immediate support with funds furnished agents for the negroes by the State Republican Central Committee. Are honest, hard working men, citizens of Indiana, who have been here from their infancy, and whose honest toil has built our railroads, our cities, our school houses and churches, and assisted to develop the resources of the State, to be disfranchised by the importation by Republicans of the ignorant and insolent negroes from Kentucky? Will workingmen submit to such an outrage? Or will they vote the Democratic ticket, and by so doing elect men to office who will guard the interest of workingmen and protect them from the baneful influences of a surplus of pauper labor, that will rob them of the fruits of their honest toil? Workingmen know their rights and will vote to maintain them.

A GREAT deal has been said by Republican papers and stump speakers about Jackson Landers, the brother of Hon. Franklin Landers, being a defaulter, as Treasurer of Marion county; and that he has been compelled to disgorge $14,304.48, that being the amount he took of the county's funds. But the facts in the case show that he has done no such thing. Besides, there is no certainty that he now owes or ever did owe Marion county a single dollar. A set of experts examined the county record and Landers settled with the county and paid what the experts found due to it. But if Jackson Landers should owe Marion county—which he does not—it should not be charged against his brother, Hon. Franklin Landers. The story is only one of the many falsehoods and libels perpetrated by unscrupulous and designing Republican leaders to make votes for their kid-gloved candidate, Porter, which they cannot accomplish. It is a disreputable business and cannot make a single vote for Porter.

THE Republicans expended over two hundred thousand dollars in Maine to elect their ticket, and nearly the entire amount was furnished by the National Republican Committee and collected outside of that State; and this is the party of great "moral ideas" and that cries fraud against their opponents.

In his speech at the New York Academy of Music the other day, Mr. Conkling is reported to have said:

"One of the main bulwarks of the Republic is the judiciary. The courts of justice are umpire, conservator, citadel. The Supreme Court of the United States is the final arbiter of many momentous controversies."

We are inclined to think Mr. Conkling has not been correctly reported. Instead of saying that the Judiciary is "a bulwark of the Republic," we think he meant to say it is a bulwark of the Republican party. And we think so because that party has not hesitated to tamper with and reconstruct it by addition to the number of its judges when party exigencies have required it. A bulwark is something designed to resist pressure or assault, and that may not be overcome or surmounted. From Washington to Lincoln the Supreme Court of the United States had the public confidence as being an institution of this sort. Under these seventy years of Democratic control, no suspicion of its integrity was ever whispered, and thus respected, it was indeed one of "the main bulwarks of the Republic." But no sooner did the Republican party get control of it than they began to tamper with and alter it by adding to the number of its Judges men of unascertained and accommodated views and principles, until it has been so changed from its original purpose and character that there is little or nothing of the quality of "a bulwark" left in it except as one for the Republican party. On all political questions it is as limp as a rag, and a reproach upon jurisprudence. Confidence in its integrity and respect for its rulings on political questions are wholly confined to the party whose behests it obeys.

Nor is it thus with this court alone, but with all courts, high or low, original or appellate, that are subject to Republican control, and every man who reads Mr. Conkling's "Umpire, Conservator, Citadel," to which he likens them, knows it is but the merest trifle. Everywhere, from Maine to any other point, they "go with their party," just as the poor deluded accessionist "went with his State," and ought therefore to be the more severely condemned in proportion to their greater intelligence and the weightier obligation of their trust. These be followed their professions. The others proved theirs to be but a lie.

It must, therefore, have been in this sense Mr. Conkling meant to be understood. His meaning is all the more apparent from his going on to set up a horrible picture of how the Democrats will at once proceed to imitate Republican example by making additions to the present number of judges, so as to bring a majority of the court into harmony with its party aims and policies. But both Mr. Conkling and his partisans may rest easy on this point. The Democracy in power will confine itself to remedies within the limits of the Constitution and of the proprieties of the occasion. Even the bad partisan judges who can then do no further harm, because no longer backed by a bad partisan Executive and Legislature, may be allowed to remain as monuments of the general abhorrence of the Republican vices that put them where they are. Their gradual removal by the operation of natural causes will ultimately give opportunity for putting better men in the places they have so greatly dishonored, by making the court in which they sit as purely partisan as either the Executive or the Legislative department.

HON. R. C. BELL is making a very satisfactory and successful canvass for Joint State Senator for the counties of Allen and Whitley, and will be elected by a much larger majority than predicted in the earliest part of the campaign. Mr. Bell is an intelligent social gentleman, one of the most eloquent speakers in the country, is well posted on the political issues of the day, is a representative man, and is in every particular well qualified to fill the office for which he has been nominated. No better selection of a candidate could have been made by the Democrats of Allen and Whitley counties.

THE grammar demolishers of the Gazette are attempting to have people believe that the gross libel perpetrated upon a leading citizen through the columns of that organ was only a joke. Mr. Orff does not regard it in that light, nor will a court and jury do so when the matter is brought before them, as it certainly will be.

Letter from General Hancock.

At the Democratic meeting at Hicksville, Ohio, which was attended by a number of Fort Wayne Democrats and which was addressed by Governor Hendricks and Senator Thurman, the following letter from General Hancock was read:

"Governor's Island, New York Harbor, Sept. 12, 1880.
Messrs. A. P. Edgerton, Ben J. Patton, and others, Hicksville, Ohio:

Gentlemen:—Accept my thanks for your invitation to Hicksville, Defiance county, Ohio, on the 17th instant. The meeting will be of unusual interest, honored, as it will be, by the presence of those two prominent leaders, Senator Thurman and Governor Hendricks. The cause must be one of no ordinary kind that brings together these eminent men on the border of the two great States of which they have long been distinguished representatives. I have reason to feel proud of being prominently identified with a cause that is upheld by the patriotism and ability of such advocates. I regret that I cannot be present on this occasion to share with my fellow-citizens the lessons of wisdom and patriotism that cannot fail to emanate from such sources.

I feel assured that the proceedings of the meeting will enforce the people's demand for honesty, economy, and efficiency in the public service, for the peace and welfare of the security of free institutions, and for all the rights and liberties of the citizen as guaranteed by the constitution and the laws. Let us hope that the masses of the people, whose interests stretch away beyond the schemes and temporary triumphs of mere partisan warfare, will take affairs into their own hands, and properly settle the question as to whether we shall have a new era of peace, reconciliation, economy and prosperity.

I am very truly yours,
WINFIELD S. HANCOCK.

THERE may be some doubt about whose victory it is in Maine, but there is none at all as to whose funeral it is. Men of all shades of political opinion agree that it was the biggest kind of a one for the Republicans.

WHEN Judge Poland asks the country to take into consideration the fact that General Garfield's district stuck to him and showed its confidence in him, notwithstanding the Credit Mobilier ugliness, he obliges the opposition to look into the record. In 1876 when the Republican party was doing its best to carry Ohio by a handsome majority for the Ohio candidate, in a year when the Republican Presidential campaign might have been expected to help the whole ticket, General Garfield got 20,012 votes in his own district and Hayes ran ahead of him 2,549. Will some kind friend of General Garfield explain why 2,549 Republicans of his district left him?

THE exodusters in Kansas hold the Republican nominations, and about 20,000 colored voters are to have a convention of their own. Republicans in that State do not seem to have any particular love for their colored brothers, and should their example be followed in Indiana, only in a slight degree, the importations from Kentucky would cease.

WHEN Mr. Blaine asserts publicly that many thousands of the Republicans of Maine can be bought up by the first comer who goes into the street and points a roll of greenbacks at them, he seems to us to be preparing trouble for himself. If the Republican majority in Maine is composed of venal men—which is what Mr. Blaine tells Mr. Garfield—how has Mr. Blaine held that majority for some twenty years if not by corruption? If the Republicans of Maine are not corrupt and purchasable, Mr. Blaine will be likely to hear from them in November. Mr. Blaine should fall like Caesar, composing his mantle around himself with decent dignity, not making faces at everybody and screaming out scandalous accusations like a furious fishwife.

GENL. FRANZ SIGEL, one of the bravest and most successful generals in the Union army, now fights mit Hancock. The General will be in our city soon to address the people on the political issues of the day; and there is no one better posted on the political situation than the fighting General—The hero of Pea Ridge. General Sigel was born in Baden in 1824, became minister of war during the revolution in that country in 1848, and in 1850 emigrated to this country, where he has become one of our loyal and highly esteemed citizens, a distinguished soldier and an eminent statesman.
